

SEMI-WEEKLY SOUTH KENTUCKIAN.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 1888.

W. A. WILGUS, Editor and Proprietor.
T. E. BARTLEY, Associate Editor.

The Indianapolis Sentinel has been sold to a Fort Wayne syndicate for $75,000.

Speaker Carlisle has about regained his strength and has resumed his duties as Speaker.

Madisonville boasts of a hotel called the Lamb House, and of course the guests are fed on mutton chops.

Hon. Ben Johnson resumed his duties as Speaker of the House Thursday having fully recovered from his late illness.

Eliza Randall, of Clay county Georgia, who was to have been hung Friday, had her sentence commuted to life imprisonment.

More of the "boys" will probably become totally disabled since the passage of the bill by the Senate allowing $72 per month to the helpless.

Mrs. Joseph C. Mackin, of Chicago, will present a very strong petition to Gov. Oglesby for the pardon of her husband who was sent up for ballot-box stuffing.

"Old Buckskin," the horse rode by Lieut. L. B. Baker, in the pursuit and capture of J. Wilkes Booth, died in Lansing, Michigan, last Friday. His skin will be mounted and placed on exhibition in the State Museum.

Lexington poured out her generous hospitality into the laps of the General Assembly, which she so handsomely entertained Friday, and they no doubt returned to Frankfort fully determined that it would be the very thing to move the Capitol to the Metropolis of the blue grass country.

The Secretary of the Treasury has received twenty-five cents from a conscience-stricken citizen of Pittsburg, Mass., who states in the accompanying letter that some thirty years ago he craved the cancellation marks on a five-cent postage stamp and used it again.—Courier Journal.

Truly we have found an honest confession and I every one who used stamps that had been through the above process were to send the Secretary of the Treasury twenty-five cents for every stamp so used the amount would purchase free stamps for the public for years to come.

The Post-office Department has determined to arm, at the expense of the Government, every postal employee on all mail trains running through sparsely settled portions of the Far West, owing to the alarming frequency of attacks of robbers on such routes. The most improved weapons and plenty of ammunition will be furnished so that the employees will be prepared to defend themselves and the United States mail matter from these "road agents," whose attacks have been so frequent of late. There is also a proposition on foot to arm train men running on Western railroads. With train men, express messengers and postal employees, properly armed and equipped, train robbery in the Far West would be a thing of the past.

A special from Washington to the Courier-Journal says: The boys in the Senate who have heretofore had incidental leanings in the direction of a high protective tariff are rapidly falling into line with the revenue reformers. Only two weeks ago Senator Voorhees made an out and out tariff for reform speech, and Thursday the bright and able young Senator, Mr. Kenia of West Virginia, made a strong and convincing argument in support of the late admirable revenue reform message of President Cleveland. Mr. Kenia spoke to a full Senate and crowded galleries, and it was noticeable that many prominent West Virginia gentlemen were present. The speech of Senator Kenia was evidently prepared with great care and he used no unnecessary words in making his points. He was in fine voice and displayed unexpected eloquence.

He spoke of the demands of the people for relief from an ordinary, exorbitant and unnecessary burden. He demanded the relinquishment of these excessive demands upon the public purse, and for the liberation of the people from the exaction of monopoly and corporate greed. He was listened to throughout with marked and universal attention, and when Mr. Sherman, interrupting, undertook to answer his quotations from Mr. Sherman's record of 1867. It was amusing and entertaining to the audience to hear Mr. Kenia quote immediately afterward Mr. Sherman's own utterances of 1867, which completely met and refuted his attempted defense.

Mr. Sherman in an excited and vehement response undertook to explain away the "contract labor bill" of 1861, and the land subsidies of the period following, but never pretended to touch the main and principle issues which had been buried at him by his Democratic opponent. The Democratic members of the Senate congratulated Mr. Kenia on his complete exposure of the tactics of John Sherman in the tax and revenue affairs of the Government. In a word Mr. Kenia clearly presented to the country the real issue before the people, a popular demand for relief from heavy taxation. In Senator Kenia the President had a warm and fearless champion.

LEGISLATIVE NEWS.

A special act regulating the sale of spirituous, vinous and malt liquors in Kentucky, passed without apparent opposition.

In response to the Senate resolution of inquiry as to the amount paid Attorney General for services from January 1881 to January 1888, the Auditor states that the amount previously reported was in excess of actual amount $2,017.

A bill increasing the pay of County Clerks for copying Assessor's books from two to four cents a line, has been passed by the Senate, also the following: A bill incorporating the Master Harbers Protective and Benevolent Association, of Louisville; one amending the acts for the benefit of the St. John's German Evangelical Church, of Louisville; one against more than one change of venue in Justice's Court trials; one for the benefit of Cerescheuk, of Campbell County, providing for the payment of $400 for certain services rendered heretofore in the Geological Survey, for which he has received no compensation; a bill amending acts incorporating the Proctor Coal Company; one incorporating the town of Drakeston, in Muhlenberg county; one changing the time of holding the Circuit Courts in Trigg and Muhlenberg counties and one authorizing the county of Spencer to refund its bonded indebtedness.

House bills passed: A bill incorporating the Globe Hemp Company, one providing for the appropriation of $5,000 to aid the county of Monroe in rebuilding its public buildings, destroyed by fire last fall; one to incorporate the Paducah Belt Railroad; one amending the charter of the city of Maysville conferring certain powers on its Board of Council, etc.; a bill to regulate peremptory challenges in felony cases in the courts of this Commonwealth passed and all acts inconsistent with this act are repealed. The following is a copy of the bill:

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That in all prosecutions for felony now pending, or which may hereafter be pending in the courts of this Commonwealth the Commonwealth and the accused shall be entitled each to ten peremptory challenges, instead of the number now provided by law.

Sec. 2. All acts inconsistent with this act, are hereby repealed.

Sec. 3. This act shall take effect from its passage.

"Free Chaw."

Fuel, and warmth, and food, and clothing, and comfort, and health are the real necessities, and things with which we should minister to the people's benefit. Talk about tobacco being a necessity of life. Look at that boy up there in the attic, this cold night, shivering in his rags, and wishing that blankets were not such a luxury, but contenting himself with the thought that his father is chewing untaxed and down in the kitchen! (Great laughter and applause.) Think of that wife with her little thin dress, longing for a shawl to wrap around her to protect her freezing form, compelled to console herself with the knowledge that her husband is smoking an untaxed cigar in the saloon! See that boy coming down Washington street, his legs the size of your thumb, carrying a cane bigger than his body—(great laughter)—sallow, pimply, worn, lighting his cigarette at every street corner, and thanking God that he has such a statesman as Blaine, to give us this necessary of life, an untaxed cigarette! (Loud laughter and applause.) I saw that one of these boys fell down in the streets of New York from freely partaking of this elixir of life. [Laughter.] All this is worse than rot—it is wickedness, and we mean to make use of this opportunity, this surplus, for better things. We mean a reform that shall sweep away useless taxation from coal, and salt, and sugar, and lumber, and wool, and clothing—the grand, universal necessities of life. [Applause.] We mean a reform that shall give relief, not to the man who is chewing his untaxed end in the saloon, or smoking his untaxed pipe around a bar-room fire; we mean a relief that shall stretch out to every cabin and every humble home, to every kitchen and chamber, to every table and every fire-side.—Geo. M. Stearns to the Boston Tariff Reformers.

WE NOTICED IT.

[Henderson Journal.] The Gleaner complains that the Journal stole its tobacco report last week. A comparison of the two accounts will show that, with the exception of the bare enumeration of sales, they are totally different. In the same column in which this paper makes the unfounded accusation against us, is a paragraph taken word for word from the South Kentucky-Kentuckian and published as original matter. It is a more difficult thing than many imagine to steal from the Gleaner, as nearly all its columns are filled with other papers, and when the Journal gets ready to rob it will select a more reliable source of information than our esteemed contemporary.

RIGHT YOU ARE.

[Owensboro Messenger.] If the Legislature appropriates $5,000 for a new court-house in Monroe county, it should not adjourn without doing as much for Graves county, whose temple of justice was also destroyed by incendiaries a few weeks ago. And if this kind of business begins, where will it end? The paper counties will soon look to the State treasury for their entire sustenance.

Does Farming Pay?

Ed. SOUTH KENTUCKIAN: NEWSTEAD, Ky., Jan. 30.—Looking at the matter in a general way, and taking an average of the farming done in this section of the State, it surely does not pay a large per cent on the investment. But certain farmers who adopt the best methods, use economy, attend strictly to their own business, don't try to work their whole farm every year, save and use all the manure possible, and don't put in any more of any crop than they can thoroughly cultivate and care for, to make it pay. If a few can make farming pay, why cannot all? Simply because they persistently refuse to get out of the old rut, to learn any more about farming than their fathers' know, refuse to mix brains with their muscle, but continue to hold to the old doctrine of hard licks and more of them, no time to meet and talk matters over with their neighbors where they might give or get new ideas, learn new methods, which carried out might greatly add to the profits of the farm.

Organization must then be as important to farmers as it has proved to be in all other occupations and professions. Organized we could surely be mutually helpful to each other. United we could combine our strength not only for our benefit and improvement but also for our mutual protection from any corporate power putting upon us unjust burdens. And we are not without example of this sort of extortion at the present time which loudly call for remedy. Many different farmers' organizations have been tried, and were more or less successful and beneficial. But the order of "Patrons of Husbandry," now a permanent institution in nearly every State in the Union, presents by far the best form of organization to meet all the wants of the tillers of the soil. And to which the American farmers must look for the best plan yet devised for elevating to a higher plane of social, moral, intellectual and political usefulness of this great conservative class, devoted to the greatest and most important of all our industries. Our "Declaration of purposes," says: "We wage no warfare against any other interest whatever." On the contrary, we are in our efforts so far as possible united with all who are in any way interested in the production and consumption, but also for all other interests that tend to bring these two parties into speedy and economical contact. Hence we hold, that transportation companies of every kind are necessary to our success, that their interests are intimately connected with our interests, and harmonious action is mutually advantageous; keeping in view the first sentence in our declaration of principles of action, that "individual happiness depends upon general prosperity."

Doubtless most of our farmers endorse the sentiments here expressed, and to some extent realize the importance of farmers acting together. But to move them to the necessary individual action to form and keep up a compact organization is the trouble. The committee on "good of the order" of Church Hill Grange have determined at an early day to visit certain localities, where the farmers have manifested some interest in this and adjoining counties. Among the places already spoken of are Louisville, Fairview or Vaughan's Chapel, Pembroke and Crofton. Correspondence from these places or from any part of the county where there is any desire to have the matter of improved methods of agriculture and the importance and benefits of farmers' organizations discussed in their midst is solicited that we may know the most favorable time to visit them. I shall be glad to attend these meetings and do all I can to aid the committee in making them interesting and profitable. J. D. CLARKE.

MACEDONIA, KY.

MACEDONIA, Ky., Feb. 2.—The woodman's axe is to be heard once more. Wheat is looking very badly since the late freeze. Several small crops of tobacco have changed hands recently. Mrs. Hettie Parker fell during the sleet and broke out several of her teeth and badly mutilated her lip. Mr. E. L. Croft's little girl had her clothing burned off a few days ago. While trying to extinguish the flames her uncle, Mr. D. E. Fowler, got his hands severely burned, but his efforts saved the little girl from any very serious injury.

The Hopkinsville and Dawson mail route has been curtailed and service between this place and Dawson will be discontinued after the 10th inst. Macedonia will be the terminus of the route thereafter.

A certain farmer of this vicinity, discovering that one of his tenants was taking his fire wood, arranged with tenant number two to engage in the same suit, the two tenants met at the wood pile and when well loaded with their landlord's wood

There came a crash, a thundering sound. The tenants, ah! where were they. Ask number two who on the ground beside his comrade lay.

Don't shoot any more I pray my Lord, I pray good Lord don't shoot. For each load I'll return a coin. And my new plow but be loosed.

The firing ceased and tenant number one helped his supposed wounded comrade up and supported him while he staggered home, after which tenant number one went to his own home believing that while his comrade had been painfully wounded, he himself had narrowly escaped death. ROUGH AND READY.

We (excuse the editorial plural) received a very polite invitation to a "Rabbit Stew" from Mr. Robert Goodwin last week. He kills his own game; dresses and cooks it, and there is not a finer amateur cook in the State. Bob learned this when a cowboy.

Major John Blankenship and Mr. Robt. Withers were in town several days this week, than whom no two clever men exist. When I was a boy during the war, I saw the Major in full uniform with long flowing black beard and hair. I thought, as did Major Scott, when he visited Camp Coleman, and that Blankenship would be a fine world and fresh in the memory of all, when the names of Lee and Jackson would adorn the scroll of oblivion. The Major is as popular at gatherings now as during the war.

In praise John tunes the Shepherd's reed, In war, he mounts the warrior's steel, In halls in gay attire is seen, In his own dances in the green.

Miss Florence Chappell has been in Clarksville for a week, having a gay time with friends and relatives. Mr. Frank Armstrong was in Cadiz the other day to see counsel about settling the dispute between the trustees in regard to the school property at Cerulean Springs, which was supposed to be the cause of the blood on the moon the other night.

Coasting is now suspended for a few days only. No one hurt nor sick.

Harry Garton and Bob Goodwin still visit their fish traps in Little river. There is a mammoth cat fish below the dam that they are trying to catch, but his catfish has seen too many of such things in his days. OSTER JOE.

"Jasper," she said severely, as he returned from the usual between-the-acta-digestion, "why do you go out of the theater and down stairs to see a man when the house is full of them?" "Maria," he replied, with the earnestness of an injured man, "why do you always look under the bed to see a man when you know the only man in the house is in it?"—Bur-detts.

Guest (at country tavern)—"Have you any cheese, landlord?" Landlord—"Not a bit in the house, sir." Guest—"Not even a little piece?" Landlord—"By gum, there is, come to think I ate run down in the cellar and fetch up that rat-trap."—Detroit Free Press.

Long, Garrett & Co., issue fire, tornado, life and accident policies. Insure barns and tobacco or other contents, permitting use of fire for comfort of hands.

The walls of the brick buildings on 7th Street, recently burned, are being torn down and cleared away preparatory to building several brick store houses on the same site.

Miss Mayne Alexander gave a fancy-dress party on Saturday night, in honor of her two charming guests, Miss Willie Wallace, of Hopkinsville, and Miss Cora Wheeler, of Indianapolis.—Harrisburg Democrat.

In another column will be found an advertisement of the popular warehouseman, M. H. Nelson & Co., located on Railroad Street, between 11th and 12th. This house is a store of clever, thorough work business men and any tobacco entrusted to them will be properly handled and the best prices obtained.

Elder E. M. Henry, of Hopkinsville, has accepted the call of the Christian church at Glendale, Leitchfield and this place and will be here the latter part of this month to enter upon his duties. He will make his home in Elizabethtown and will move his family here as soon as he can get a house.—Elizabethtown News.

Mr. Hodgson, proprietor of the Clarksville Marble works is just in receipt of an elegant line of monuments and other marble work and his prices for such work are so reasonable that the poorest can afford to have good work in his line done, to honor the spot where lie the remains of their beloved friends and relatives. See his advertisement elsewhere and profit thereby.

Daniel & Buckner, of Clarksville, have resumed their stock sales row at their stable and will continue them throughout the spring, selling each first and third Saturday of the month. These sales offer the farmer with a surplus of stock a good opportunity to get rid of it, while the farmer in need of stock has his wants supplied here. All who have stock for sale can send it in and have it sold for small commission.

Robert Coleman, employed as assistant book-keeper for the L. & N. R. Co., at Earlington, fell from a freight car one afternoon last week and was dragged a considerable distance before he was rescued. He sustained no serious injury, but was slightly cut and torn about the face, head, knees and hands, by coming in contact with the tender along the side of the track, over which he was dragged. He returned to his mother's in this city and will be able to resume his duties by the latter part of the week.

Messrs. Polk Candler and J. L. Connell have bought the line kiln in this city, situated on the West side of Little River and will put an engine in place at once and begin the manufacture of an excellent quality of lime. As soon as practicable the capacity will be increased to one hundred and fifty barrels per day, there being an inexhaustible supply of lime stone on the site and the quality of lime has already been tested and found to be superior even to that of the Erin Lime, which has a reputation. The firm will make their own barrels also, in which to ship the lime. The gentlemen composing the firm are enterprising and thrifty men and will doubtless make a brilliant success of this enterprise.

Julius Carter and Geo. Torian, both colored, quarrelled over the division of some property some time ago, and Saturday they met on 7th street, near the bridge and renewed the difficulty. Hot words passed when Carter knocked Torian down. When Torian recovered himself he drew a long knife and proceeded to carve his antagonist as if he proposed scalping him. A long gasp nearly taking the scalp was cut on the left side of the head, from which blood flowed freely. The combatants were separated and at once arrested. Torian was locked up and Carter was released on his own recognitions. Yesterday their trial came up and the Commonwealth not being ready, the case was continued until next Saturday. Torian gave bond for his appearance in the sum of $100 and was released. They are brothers-in-law and the trouble was caused by an unsatisfactory division of property in which Torian and Carter's wife were equally interested.

AMUSEMENTS.

Edwin Arden played "Eagles Nest" in Owensboro last night.

Louisville gave Prof. Elchorn a benefit, at McCannoy's Theatre Sunday.

Frank C. Bange will appear at Paducah to-night in Lawrence Barrett's great play "Francesca da Rimini."

The A. G. Field Minstrel performance at the Opera House to-night cannot fail to please the most fastidious. It is highly recommended by the press as being chaste and refined in every respect, and everyone who enjoys good music and lots of fun should not fail to attend. Street parade will take place at 11:30 a.m.

The Eunice Goodrich Company's engagement in this city was not a success financially. With the exception of Monday and Saturday nights, and the matinee, they played only to fair houses. Two watches were given away as previously advertised by the company; the one Saturday afternoon being drawn by Miss Maggie Gorman, of this city, and the one Saturday night by Joe Buckner, col. The company went from here to Columbia, Tenn.

The probabilities are that when Miss Mary Anderson's lease of her London theatre expires, she will return to America, for a tour of the United States. Her proposed Australian tour has evidently been abandoned, but assurances have been received here that she will appear in Louisville, at the Masonic Temple Theatre, for a three nights' engagement, during the month of February 1889.

William McFarland, one of the oldest actors in the country, died in St. Louis Feb. 1st. For fifty-five years he was on the stage, and he was at one time recognized as one of the leading men in the country. He supported Macready when the great Englishman was in this country, and later the elder Booth, John Adams, Edwin Forrest and all of the old-timers.

The Louisville Courier-Journal says: The engagement of Booth and Barrett to appear here seems to be definitely settled, and Mr. James R. Camp left yesterday for Montgomery, Ala., to complete the details with the actors.

The engagement is for four performances, including a matinee, on May 10, 11 and 12. The repertoire will probably be "Hamlet," "King Lear," "Othello," and "Julius Caesar." The scale of prices will be as follows: General admission, $1; reserved, $2; season tickets $4.

Exposition music hall will be used for the performance. The building was to have been sold in March, but Mr. Camp has gained the consent of the holders of the bonds to a postponement of the sale.

M'Lee Rhea.

M'Lee Rhea undoubtedly stands at the head of her profession, her appearances in the leading cities of Europe and America have stamped her as an actress of genius and her coming engagement in this city should be an event for all lovers of refined amusement to avail themselves of. She will be supported by an unusual fine company, and the costumes will be an important feature of her engagement. She appears as, "Frou Frou," Friday evening, "Fairy Fingers," at the matinee, and "Camille" Saturday evening. The Providence Evening Telegram of Oct. 5th, says: "Her Camille is not the conventional Camille to which most of us were accustomed before Rhea came to illustrate from the character those grotesque features which were offensive to the fastidious. The embodiment of vice has always offended sound critical judgment, but in M'Lee Rhea's embodiment vice is purified rather than exalted, and she presents to the audience a beautiful woman whom a cruel fate has placed in an unhealthy and impure atmosphere, but whose innate goodness rises to the surface in spite of unfavorable conditions, and reveals to the audience a nature in which is contained the sublimity of human virtue and devotion."

The last act of M'Lee Rhea's "Camille" shows the refinement of her taste, and proves that an actress can move the sympathies of an audience, move them to tears, and sway their emotions by dying in a perfectly natural way, without falling prone upon the floor in front of a chair, or rolling off a lounge in horrible simulation of dying agonies. Camille's death is as quiet and unobtrusive as her life, the more affecting because of the absence of those strained effects which make such scenes repulsive. Her death is a gentle translation from a world of sorrow to a better and a brighter sphere. Four times was she recalled, and at the close of the fourth act a beautiful floral tribute to her genius was passed up to her."

Straight After Our Manufacturer.

We call the attention of the citizens of Princeton to an article in another column of The Banner this week on the Metcalf Manufacturing Company, of Hopkinsville. Such enterprises as this build up a city, and what Princeton should have. With superior advantages in railroad facilities, Princeton offers an inducement that, if only supplemented by a liberal private subscription in the way of stock, she could easily secure such an enterprise, and probably this one. It is certainly worth the effort. Mr. George Metcalf, a member of the Hopkinsville company, is in the city. He has expressed himself as being highly delighted with the city, its ad-

CALEDONIA.

Mr. Editor:

It is not often the Caledonia correspondent receives a valuable paper, in there is such a wide range of subjects, and then, there must of necessity be a flowing.

Our good community (and there never was a better one) is now all a "gog" over a depot, at Abe's Shop.

The ardent voice of turpitudes were whispered softly into our ears. The purchase of the L. & A. T. by the L. & N. R. Co., also gave us encouragement; and so many good things coming at once increased even the religious zeal of the country and a more brotherly, happy group could not be found.

But how often are hopes, with their bright glitter, dashed into midnight's dark hour; for behold! we are to-day without turpitude, and virtually without railroad, and instead we have mud and more of it. We hear of prosperity at Newstead, and happiness at Gracy, and we smile ourselves upon our breast, and with a glad heart murmur—"What have we done?"—Abe's Shop would have been the largest shipping point on the road, and it does seem, because one or two men offended against the law, the whole country ought not to be punished. To-day Gracy is getting the majority of the tobacco that ought to go to Abe's Shop.

We are ready to throw up our hat to Gracy, for Mr. Henry Hyatt is doing all he can to accommodate the people. He acted wisely in not attempting to "bust the engine of the track," and to-day, for his business generosity is not only reaping a rich harvest, but has the satisfaction of knowing he has largely benefitted his community.

We imagine it is exceedingly pleasant and self-gratifying to see growing up, with all of its freshness and beauty, a village of his own making, and where the corn and tobacco grew last year, to-day is heard the sound of the hammer. All this has been the result of good sense and good management, and we are still in the mud.

But back to our motto. We have actually gotten a proposition to this effect: Give us $500 cash, and the ground to put it on, and we will put you up a depot, and charge you the usual rate of freight, and this proposition has been accepted and most of the money raised. So in the future when the Spring-time comes, gentle Annie, we may expect to have the pleasure of seeing an engine stand stock still, and then we will enjoy it, for we will know it cost $500 to do it.

We expect now a proposition from your enterprising city to build the turpitude, and if so, why I rather believe it will be done.

T. J. Wall has gone out of business at Caledonia, and everybody is regretting it, for there are few better business men than Tom, and none more deserving popular notice.

Oscar Slaughter, of Cincinnati, has purchased the stock of goods belonging to J. D. Russell, and has retained Mr. Charles Slaughter, his brother, late with M. Frankel & Sons, as manager, and will conduct the business in future.
